Description

The Last Dimension is a fractal arcade game made by Sebastian Haushofer and Markus Reichel during their course “Multimedia UE” at Technical University Vienna. The player controls a “dimension key” through fractal levels and tries not to touch them, while the fractal must stay on the screen. The longer the player survives, the higher his “dimension” gets. This dimension can be compared in a weekly leaderboard. Each level has an own theme underlined with a unique soundtrack.

Features

- Currently two (five firmly planned) procedurally generated fractal levels
- Each level has its unique soundtrack
- Weekly online leaderboard
